Asbury Students Tell Of Famous Revival

Misses Ann Dunaway and Joan Thomason and Messrs. Marshall Ringsdorf and Billy Vaughan, students of Asbury College, in Wilmore, Ky., who are visiting their parents during spring holidays, gave an inspirational description of the famous revival held at that college a month ago, at the Elba Methodist Church Sunday night.

The remarkable demonstration attracted much attention, and according to the Elba young people, broke Thursday night and continued through Monday.

The Elba Methodist church was the scene of the revival, and the Elba young people, who were the first to be converted, were the first to be converted.

all religions. Millard Coody plays the role of Jesus and it is hard to believe that he is a man living in the world today, even though he is shown earlier in the film playing the role of himself, a bank teller in the home town of Lawton. His portrayal of Christ is so real that one has the feeling of living in his time. The role of the Virgin Mary is played by Darlene Bridges and is one for which her gentleness of voice and manner fits her perfectly.

RUPTURE

SHIELD EXPERT IN DOTHA

H. M. Shenav, widely known expert of injuries, will personally be at the Houston Hotel, Dothan, Saturday only, March 25, from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Mr. Shenav says: The Zedie Shield is a tremendous improvement over all former methods, effecting immediate results. It will not only hold ruptures perfectly no matter the size or location, but it will increase the circulation, strengthen the weakened parts, and thereby close the opening in ten days in the average case, regardless of heavy lifting, straining, or any position the body may assume. A nationally known scientific method. No under straps or cumbersome arrangements and absolutely no medicines or medical treatment. Mr. Shenav will be glad to demonstrate without charge.

On The Farm With The Vet Trainees

The Elba Veterans Class under Mr. Wade Mallory's direction, has recently constructed a post treating plant. This plant is simple and efficient, and is the work of a post peer and a concrete vat.

The post peer was made from an old cylinder cut in a Lullston peanut picker. The ribs in the old cylinder were replaced by chains and then it was mounted on a frame on the bearings that supported it in the old picker. The unpainted post is run over the chains which turn at a high rate of speed, knocking the bark from the post. It will peel an ordinary green post every minute. Power for this peeler is furnished by any ordinary farm tractor, or any gasoline motor with as much as 3 horsepower on the pulley. The total cost of this peeler was approximately $100.

The concrete vat was constructed by the class and has a capacity of 50 posts per day. A concrete vat is absolutely necessary as any metal drum of 55 gallon capacity is suitable for treating posts. Since concrete is somewhat porous, a metal drum is usually recommended. Although an ordinary 55 gallon drum is satisfactory it has a capacity of only 15 posts a day.

The treating solution is made by adding Pentachlorophenol to fuel oil at the rate of 10 parts fuel oil to one part Pentachlorophenol. The treating solution is approximately 20 cents per gallon, and the average post will absorb three-fourths of a gallon making the cost of treating about 15c.

Both pine and hardwood posts can be treated and will last 12 to 15 years. All posts must be cut and peeled and allowed to cure for 60 to 90 days before treatment. Some of the treated posts may be seen at the Elba Veterans Hog Project, located two miles out on the Elba-Victoria road.

Most of the posts that the veterans around Elba need to treat are for their livestock program will be treated in this simple, inexpensive plant.

Fine Flock Of Pullets

M. C. Boutwell, proprietor of the Boutwell Bakery, has a pretty flock of large type English White Leghorn pullets. Mr. Boutwell said he ordered 300 sexed pullets and 100 straight run chicks of the highest quality he could find, paying thirty cents each for day-old chicks. Some of the pullets started laying when they were five months old. They are seven months old now and are averaging more than 200 eggs per day. He has culled the flock down to about 300.

Mr. Boutwell is using most of his eggs in home-baked pound cakes, a batch requiring 14 pounds or about 125 eggs. He said he has found through his baking experience that fertile eggs are much more satisfactory than infertile eggs.

The treating solution is made by adding Pentachlorophenol to fuel oil at the rate of 10 parts fuel oil to one part Pentachlorophenol. The treating solution is approximately 20 cents per gallon, and the average post will absorb three-fourths of a gallon making the cost of treating about 15c.

Both pine and hardwood posts can be treated and will last 12 to 15 years. All posts must be cut and peeled and allowed to cure for 60 to 90 days before treatment. Some of the treated posts may be seen at the Elba Veterans Hog Project, located two miles out on the Elba-Victoria road.

Fine Litter Of Pups

Police Chief J. W. Parker is in high spirits because of the fine litter of 16 bloodhound puppies born at his home Tuesday morning. He said he never saw such a uniform lot of doggies. They are all dark red and healthy as can be. They are of the famous stock belonging to Sheriff H. D. Tillman. Chief Parker has had many requests from friends for the pups but has not made any definite promises.

Dorsey Announces 1950 Frigidaires

Dorsey Bros. Chevrolet, Inc., announces the 1950 model Frigidaires, now on display in their showroom and invites everyone to see these deluxe refrigerators and other home appliances. Some of the features stressed are new gold and white beauty, new aluminum rust-proof shelves, new full-length door, new storage drawer, famous meter-meter mechanism and 5-year protection plan, all-steel meat storage drawer, large space for big items, more tall bottle space, large super freezer space, double easy quality cube trays, new half-shelf, swing down jack shelf for small items, all porcelain interior, safe cold top-to-bottom.

Kinston Road Closed

E. H. Hatcher who is employed at the powerhouse at the dam and lives in the Basin community was in Elba Tuesday morning and reported that the Kinston highway is closed from the Two-Mile bridge toward Elba. A new bridge is being constructed at that point and all traffic on the highway is being diverted at the completion of the new bridge. Mr. Hatcher says that it is his understanding that following the completion of the new bridge, a new structure will be built at that point and all traffic on the highway is being diverted at the completion of the new bridge.

Satan's Throne

Lesson for February 26, 1950

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

By Dr. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: ACTS 16:19-24:11

REVOLUTIONARY READING: 1 Chron. 16:1-23:29

Church with the Lid Off

Paul, on the church at Corinth (and to others as well), held no brief for them. He was not trying to praise them or to tell anybody how good they were.

He knew them intimately; he had indeed converted most of the members.

His letters to Corinth, from which our lesson gives a small sample, shows us a church "with the lid off."

Where Satan's Throne Is

YEARS AFTERWARD, another Christian writer said of another church that they lived "where Satan's throne is." You might almost have said the same thing of Corinth. It was a large commercial city; people from everywhere flocked into it. Like any city of this sort it had earned a reputation for wickedness of every kind—drinking, gambling, women, cut-throat business, even politics—it was all there. Even in the early, going Roman world, Corinth was notorious.

Corinth was a sort of man-made jungle, like our own great cities today. It made a sort of test case: If the church could succeed in Corinth it could succeed anywhere.

If the power of Christ could make new men and women out of the denizens of that great city, there was no jungle, man-made or nature-made where Christ could not go. Can men and women be Christian in the midst of a non-Christian, even anti-Christian world?

Our Pagan World

PAUL'S ANSWER, of course, is Yes: on one condition. You must take your pattern for living from Jesus, not from the world around you. The big problem at Corinth, which included all other problems, was the fact that the Christians there were acting too much like the people outside the church. Christians must be different! insisted Paul. This is not an echo of a bygone time.

Our own world is a new Corinth. Even into the remotest village, the most isolated farm, the world of our time pushes in, by radio, movies, magazines and papers and advertising, even by schools and clubs. And it is a pagan world.

Take the movies alone, that fertile source of most young people's ideas. Hollywood's idea of marriage—a temporary affair till boredom do us part; Hollywood's idea of a good time—liquor flowing free; Hollywood's idea of success—an immense house with an even bigger swimming pool.

Not that there are no good moving pictures; but in general what is made glamorous on a thousand screens is anything but a Christian world.

And Be Ye Separate

PAUL KNEW it is not practical to have no contact with evil. He would not approve of Christians going into monasteries where they would benefit from the good but not the bad of the world. Christians have to live in the world, even if they live where Satan's throne is. But Christians ought to be different.

The world says: Drink makes no difference; men of distinction all do it. The Christian knows better: Christ's man of distinction will keep himself clean. The world says: Let yourself go, follow your impulses, look out for yourself. The Christian knows better: he is one bought with a price. We that are strong ought to help the weak and not to please ourselves. The world says: Do as other people do!

'Billy The Kid' Still Intrigues Old West Fans

DENVER, COLO.—With tales of western bandits enjoying a revival because of a couple of claimants to the identity of Jesse James, speculation has widened concerning what would have been like had they been born and reared in a modern-day western town.

Among those who have come within the purview of such speculation is William Bonney—a name which would mean little to most people; but tell them that William Bonney was the real name of "Billy the Kid" and ears will perk up at the circumstances, most people agree.

If he had grown up in a Midwest town of today, he would be a fair specimen of the modern-day youth, but he would have been a good deal different, because he had plenty of nerve, laughed at discomfort and was quite a handy fellow with a gun. If his thoughts had turned to show business, he would have become a fine hooper. Even without training, he had an easy aptitude for dancing and it is reported that the girls loved to be his partners.

Name Still Thrills The "Billy the Kid" name and exploits.

He is the hero of dozens of movies, all the way from "The Outlaw" and a Robert Taylor epic to the quickest of the quickie ventures. He is even exalted in a ballet, "Billy the Kid" which was designed by Eugene Loring, the former Milwaukee dance leader, and which now rates among the vivid examples of American dance.

Yes, a fellow who is brave and handsome and cheerful and can kill more effectively than any of his competitors will always have a fascination for a worshipping world of youth. In his 21 years, Billy knocked off 21 men (and perhaps more).

"He was probably the quickest and surest man on the trigger anywhere south or west of Wild Bill Hickok," says that shrewd old Texas vaquero, Jim Young.

This restless youth, this symbol of the wildest west, this sagebrush Prince Charming was born in, of all places, New York city—a Bowery slum tenement to be exact. The time was just 90 years ago.

When William was 3 the obscure Bonney family moved to Coffeyville, Kan., where the father died. Mrs. Bonney and her two sons, Billy and Ed, moved on to Colorado, where she married a Dr. Armstrong and then moved to Silver City, N.M., where she opened a restaurant near Fort Union, on the Santa Fe trail, and then moved on to Silver City, N.M., a crude mining town. His mother ran a boarding house and Billy had a few years' schooling.

When Billy was 12, he and his mother were walking on a Silver City street when a young blacksmith tossed a slurring remark at her. Billy sprang upon the fellow, but was pulled away by a good natured passer-by, Moulton, who slapped the blacksmith down. Later, in a saloon, the enraged blacksmith attacked Moulton with a chair. Billy pulled out his pocket knife and drove it into the assailant's heart.

Billy scouted out of the saloon, headed west and never saw his family again. No more is known of him until he was 16. By that time he was a cowboy and monte dealer around Tucson. He gained publicity by killing a few men in card games. How that boy could whip out a "44"!

But the real, the reprehensible Billy was showing up, too. Far out on the trail he spotted three Indians and, with three shots, killed them for the ponies, saddles and pelts they had.

"Sure," replied the hotel man, "but that there towel was put up before the law was passed."

When next her husband asked to see the book, his wife told him eagerly, "I did just as you told me. See."

On one page was written: "Received $50." On the opposite page was noted: "Spent it all."

CERTIFIED SEED
J. R. Speed County Agent, says that certification work, the purpose of which is to provide farmers with better planting seed of superior varieties, was made possible by an act of the 1945 Alabama Legislature. He further advises that the Alabama Crop Improvement Association is the official certification agency as provided by the Act. It was established in 1945.

Recent events have turned the spotlight on Southeast Asia, stronghold of democracy in the East and the world's chief source of a raw material on which modern civilization depends—natural rubber.
A scant 70 years ago not a single rubber tree grew in this entire area, nearly as large as Europe. Today there are millions of acres of new trees of high-yielding rubber trees which supply the world with rubber. The United States alone used over 600,000 tons of it in 1949.
In addition to the large plantations or "estates" which are financed and managed by European and American companies, there are over 400,000 small one-family rubber farms in Malaya alone which supply a "cash crop" for native Malays, Chinese, and Indians.
A booklet called "Natural Rubber and You" has recently been published by the Rubber Research Bureau, Dept. 2300, 1631 K St., N.W., Washington 6, D.C. It shows in photographs how natural rubber is grown in Southeast Asia. You can obtain a free copy by writing the Bureau.

CHOICE OF LAND AND SOIL PREPARATION ESSENTIAL FACTORS IN PEANUT YIELDS
Choice of good lands for peanuts and the right soil preparation are the first steps toward higher yields. J. R. Speed County Agent, reminded Coffee County farmers this week, "All too often peanuts are grown on poorly prepared seedbeds and run-down soils that are low in organic matter," he said.
"Just how soils affect peanut yields are shown in results of experiments at the Wiregrass substation at Headland. At that station, a good soil produced 1,386 more pounds of peanuts per acre than did a thin, run-down soil of low fertility. The peanuts were not fertilized in either case," continued Mr. Speed.
The substation work shows that if peanuts are grown on fertile land continuously and are dug year after year, yields are likely to be lower each year unless soil fertility is maintained by use of soil-improving crops.
In a 17 year experiment at the substation three crops of winter legumes turned under during the first four years of the experiment maintained the soil fertility for the first seven years, with yields averaging about 1,500 pounds per acre. Afterward the yields declined steadily, and at the end of 17 years the per acre yield was less than 500 pounds. No legumes were grown after the fourth year.

Good land preparation reduces cultivation costs, pointed out Mr. Speed. He said where there is a ridge or vetch on land to be planted in peanuts, the winter legume must be turned under at least 30 days before peanut planting time.
"If a field has on it crop residue and no winter legume," continued the agent, "the soil should be turned early in the winter to allow time for vegetable matter to completely rot. The resulting organic matter improves the fertility of the soil and yields are easier to maintain. On the other hand, if the vegetable matter is raked and burned, the organic matter is lost. A continuous practice of this kind eventually lowers the yield considerably."

With this statement, County Agent Speed reminds farmers that it is to their own interest that a true picture of farming operations be obtained in the 1950 census of agriculture, which will get underway April 1.
"This census may be important to you in ways not expected by you," he said. "For example, if in the future we have government marketing quotas on livestock, they are certain to be based on present livestock numbers. A state or county with a high number of hogs, beef animals, or dairy cows will naturally get a bigger quota than a section reporting fewer head."

It was emphasized by the agent that the census is to be used for statistical purposes only and information given cannot be used for taxation or determining individual farm allotments or marketing quotas.
Mr. Speed urged farmers to do a little figuring and jot down a few notes on farm operations before the census taker's visit. "This will save you time and insure giving more accurate information," he said.
"This will be the 14th national wide farm census since the first one was taken in 1850."

At an installation ceremony on Tuesday afternoon at the City Hall, six junior police boys received their officers' caps and badges. Mayor L. P. Mullins told the group of young policemen that he and the city council appreciate the fine work they are doing under the supervision of officer Alex Strickland, and as a token of the confidence placed in them, he as mayor, in behalf of the City of Elba, presented them with police caps and badges. The Mayor then shook hands with each boy and wished them well in their duties. The boys, whose principal duties are to direct traffic in the street corners near the school building, are Bert English, Owen Ziglar, Jack Parker, Robert Newton, Eliot Kendrick and Harry Swain. City Clerk T. D. Kendrick administered the following oath of office:
"I do solemnly swear that I will uphold the laws of the City of Elba, and will listen to and obey the instructions of my superior officers. I will at all times conduct myself in such a way that it will do credit to my parents, the Mayor and the City Council. I will report all violations of the law to my superior officers. While on duty and wearing the cap and badge of a Junior Police Officer, I will conduct myself as an officer and try to live up to the honor and confidence placed in me by the Mayor and City Council. I will do my best to make a good Junior Policeman, so help me God."

After taking the oath of office the group ended the ceremony as their captain.

On last Thursday evening the group enjoyed a picnic lunch on the banks of White Water Creek near the mouth of Big Creek. Police officer Alex Strickland and Fireman Phil English were hosts at the occasion.

Mammouth Cabbage
Mr. Math McCollough brought a mammouth cabbage to town Wednesday morning which weighed seven and one-half pounds and was as pretty a specimen as we had ever seen. His brother, Ran, said Math has lots of other cabbage on his place, but that the big heads are close to the house, showing that Math doesn't get far from the house.

When Sam Bean Young recently purchased a fine new automobile, he said it was the first car he has owned since the big flood of 1929. He said that when the flood came he had just paid for a new car and had not used it at all. It was completely ruined and he was so disgusted, it took him 20 years to recover.

Forgot Walking Stick
George Morris was sitting on the bench in front of the Morris McCollough store when the old walking stick started to fall during the heavy and stormy rain of last Monday. It is reported that Mr. Morris forgot all about his walking stick when he scampers to safety.

Attend Lumber Meet
Messrs Paul Windham, Claude Dorsey and Tom Vaughan attended the first annual convention of the Alabama Forest Products Association in session in Montgomery Tuesday and Wednesday. A feature of the meet was inspection of new machinery designed to speed logging and lumber production.

Mr. Vaughan's principal object in attending the convention was to supervise the exhibition of new labor saving machines which were demonstrated on a Dorsey trailer. Mr. Vaughan is said to be working on another lumber handling machine which he expects to complete in the not too distant future. Mr. Vaughan attended the convention as a mechanic and machine builder. He is employed by Windham Lumber Company.

Messrs Windham and Dorsey remained in Montgomery to attend the banquet Monday night.

At an installation ceremony on Tuesday afternoon at the City Hall, six junior police boys received their officers' caps and badges. Mayor L. P. Mullins told the group of young policemen that he and the city council appreciate the fine work they are doing under the supervision of officer Alex Strickland, and as a token of the confidence placed in them, he as mayor, in behalf of the City of Elba, presented them with police caps and badges. The Mayor then shook hands with each boy and wished them well in their duties. The boys, whose principal duties are to direct traffic in the street corners near the school building, are Bert English, Owen Ziglar, Jack Parker, Robert Newton, Eliot Kendrick and Harry Swain. City Clerk T. D. Kendrick administered the following oath of office:

"I do solemnly swear that I will uphold the laws of the City of Elba, and will listen to and obey the instructions of my superior officers. I will at all times conduct myself in such a way that it will do credit to my parents, the Mayor and the City Council. I will report all violations of the law to my superior officers. While on duty and wearing the cap and badge of a Junior Police Officer, I will conduct myself as an officer and try to live up to the honor and confidence placed in me by the Mayor and City Council. I will do my best to make a good Junior Policeman, so help me God."

After taking the oath of office the group ended the ceremony as their captain.

On last Thursday evening the group enjoyed a picnic lunch on the banks of White Water Creek near the mouth of Big Creek. Police officer Alex Strickland and Fireman Phil English were hosts at the occasion.

Coffee County Music Festival To Be Held Here April 6 And 7

A music festival and an art exhibit are to be held at the new gym of Elba High School on April 6 and 7, all the schools of the county taking part.

On Thursday, April 6, the 6th and 8th grades will come in from the 10 elementary schools in the county. For the massed singing, Miss Mary Vic Mauk of Troy State Teachers College will direct the children, following which individual school numbers will be presented. The children furnishing these specialties are those from Elba, Enterprise, New Brockton and Mt. Pleasant. Miss Joan Clark, Mrs. A. E. Bradley, Hugh Semmes and Miss L. O. LeCompte will direct their pupils in these specialties.

The Elba band will furnish a half-hour of music with its majorettes performing to the delight of the children.

The art exhibit will be displayed in the gym. The children and the public will spend time in inspecting the display. It was prepared by all schools of the county.

The High School students will participate on Friday, April 7, there being eleven junior high schools and four senior high schools. The massed singing will be directed by G. A. Stephenson, Director of Music, Troy State Teachers College.

The individual school numbers will be given by these schools and directors: Junior High: Goodman school, Mrs. Effie Goodman, director; Mt. Pleasant: Miss Louise LeCompte, director; Senior High Schools: New Brockton, Mrs. Hugh Semmes, director; Elba, Miss Joan Clark, director; Coffee County High, Mr. Mary Ruth Lewis, director.
